

Iron County Register

Entered in the Post Office at Ironton, Mo., as Second-Class Matter.

VOLUME LII. NUMBER 25

Ironton, Missouri.

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1918

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Corn is being imported.

The growing wheat is looking fine.

Time to get the Thanksgiving turkey.

Many cases of influenza reported at Pilot Knob.

County court proceedings are published this week.

Shepherd Mountain is barren and black since shorn of its timber.

It will truly be a glad day "when Johnny comes marching home."

Sunday School will resume at the Presbyterian Church next Sunday.

There seems to be a vast lot more fodder than there is corn this fall.

When are we going to have some more street crossings on Main street?

J. G. Chilton shipped a car of horses from Bismarck to Libbourn Monday night.

R. L. McLaughrey, the jeweler, is now located in the Academy of Music building.

Buy your Pork, country style, at Kahn's Meat Market, Ironton, 25c per lb.—Adv.

Conductors Andrews and Webb and others are in Reynolds county on their annual hunt.

It looks like Iron county, as usual, will "go over the top" in the United War Work Campaign.

Middlebrook contributed $68 to the United War Work Fund, a splendid showing for that little hamlet.

Many cases of influenza and a number of deaths therefrom are reported from Middlebrook and vicinity.

A line from our old friend, Mr. S. T. Goff, informs us that he has removed from Mountain View, Arkansas, back to Belgrade, Mo.

Parties who purchased Fourth Liberty Loan Bonds on the installment plan will be required to make second payment by 21st inst.

It is reported that influenza is raging at Bismarck. Four deaths are said to have occurred there Saturday night from the contagion.

Never in Ironton's history were eggs so scarce and high as they have been the past few weeks. The latest price quoted is fifty cents a dozen.

If there is a boy or girl in the valley or vicinity who wants to learn typesetting they can get the opportunity by applying at this office at once.

M. W. Dagherty left last week for Creighton, Mo., to spend some time with his mother and sister. He says he will be back sometime after the first of the year.

Iron county has subscribed $600,000 to the Liberty Loans and war relief funds since war was declared in April, 1917. You wouldn't have thought it possible, would you?

Capt. R. W. Gay left Sunday for Fort Riley, Kansas, where he will serve in the Medical Corps of the army. Mrs. Gay has gone to St. Louis, where she will probably spend the winter.

Monday was more like a winter day than any we've had this fall. The clouds were heavy and the wind blew cold. Tuesday dawned bright and clear, a little chilly but fine and bracing.

The Register is very sorry to hear of the death of Mrs. Schriber, formerly Miss Boss, of Middlebrook, from influenza in Denver, Colorado, last week. The bereaved have our sympathy.

A. B. Reel is now employed as assistant at the Ironton station. Mr. Downey is certainly entitled to some help. The company hasn't got a more faithful, hard-working man in its employ.

It is reported that Mr. Chas. E. Bolch has disposed of his mineral prospects at Annapolis and vicinity at a most satisfactory price to some St. Louis parties who will continue the prospecting.

Centerville Outlook: "Game Warden R. E. Guntion of Ironton was in town Thursday checking up the license record. There is likely to be a number of arrests for violations of the game law in the near future."

The appointment of a postmaster at Ironton is still in abeyance. More than four months since the Civil Service examination. It seems the Department is having a hard time deciding between two such good men.

F. E. DeWeese, the popular field manager of the recent Batter County Fair, is reported as rather ill with influenza at his apartment at the Gibbons Hotel. All wish for his speedy recovery.—Poplar Bluff Republican.

Recorder Hawkins issued the following marriage licenses this past week:

Rollie Ross, Flat River, and Jewell Hill, Ironton.

Norman S. Sinclair, Bellevue, and Bulah Jordan, Bismarck.

The committee selected to canvass the Ironton school district in the interest of the United War-Work Campaign are hard to beat. They went at their work with system and energy; covered their territory thoroughly; reached the mark set for them—$1,000.00, and then some.

Our young friend, Robert L. Farmer, of State College, New Mexico, sends us a clipping from the El Paso, Texas, Morning Times of October 20th, on which are portrayed the classic and distinguished features of a once noted Irontonian, the Rev. Fuller Swift. His reverence is garbed in the Episcopal surplice and collar and the effect is saint-like. Bob regrets that the likeness is not life-size, but we'll try and worry along with the diminutive proposition.

The churches, the schools and the picture show have opened after being under the ban for five weeks because of the influenza. There is still much of the disease in the community but the authorities have concluded that the removal of the ban will not aggravate conditions. A number of fatalities are reported from Middlebrook the past week.

A new time card went into effect on the railroad last Sunday. Following is the time of the arrival of the passenger trains that stop at Ironton station: northbound—No. 6, 3:32 A. M.; No. 22, 2:08 P. M.; No. 34, 4:50 P. M.; southbound—No. 53, 11:55 A. M.; No. 4, 12:11 P. M.; No. 3, 12:23 A. M. The other trains make regular stops here. The northbound local freight is due here at 9:45 A. M. and the southbound local at 12:15 P. M.

Because of the fact that there were no local contests in the Primary Election in Iron county last August, the Register did not print the official returns. At the time we heard of some Smart Ains, beyond Bellevue, saying "The Register wouldn't print the primary election vote; it didn't want to show the votes given to the official voters from the time of the election last week. What has this got to do with it?" Well, we are not sure, but we are sure that the Register is not a party to any of the "what-ifs" of the Smart Ains.

Mr. Geo. C. Hoxes has removed from St. Louis to Boston, Massachusetts, to look after his business interests there. The man who will succeed him at "Mountain View Farm" here in the valley and the place will probably be offered for sale. Much of the live stock has already been disposed of. Mr. Hoxes has by far the most beautiful and extensive summer home in the valley and he has spent money thereon with a lavish hand the past two years. We very much regret to see him leave the valley, but he and his brothers, we understand, have large business interests in the east that demand his personal attention. "Mountain View" is an ideal and partial country home and we very much regret that there is anything anywhere else in Southeast Missouri to compare with it.

While Mary Pickford was in San Francisco working on her Artcraft picture, "Amarilly of Clothesline Alley," which will be shown at the Academy Theatre, she was requested by the Red Cross officials to speak to those workers engaged in the great Union Iron Works, the big ship-building plant. The popular little star wore a coat and a cloth hat, and some of the men were doubtful of her identity. "If you're Mary Pickford where are your curls?" yelled an oil-banded worker. With that challenge, "our Mary" whipped off her hat and the famous Pickford curls tumbled over her shoulders. The shipyard echoed with the cheers of the men, and they listened attentively to the star's eloquent appeal, and the results were more than satisfactory to the Red Cross people.—Adv.

Mike Kelly, the trusty, and the three prisoners from Reynolds county, Enuch and Milton Barton and Robert Camden, who escaped from the Iron county jail Monday afternoon of last week, have all been recaptured and are again in durance vile. Wednesday night of last week about midnight a light was seen in the store of the Sigo Furnace Company at Doyle in the west end of the county. This is an unusual hour for a light to be burning in the store and Mr. Claud Clay, the manager, was notified. An investigation was made and four men were discovered in the store; further investigation revealed that the quartette were the four men who had fled from the Ironton jail. They were called on to surrender; the two Bartons submitted, but Kelly and Camden got out of the door and sped in the darkness, several shots being fired at them as they ran. The Bartons were brought to Ironton Thursday by Wm. H. Webb of Bixby and lodged in jail. Friday morning Camden surrendered himself at Bixby and a few hours later, as Sheriff Blue and his father were driving toward Ironton, about four miles beyond Bixby, they saw Kelly in the road in front of them. When first accosted he made a show of resistance and drew a revolver, but on seeing that both officers had him covered with their guns he threw up his hands. He said he was on his way to his home at Des Arc. When taken into custody it was discovered that Kelly had a gun shot wound in the back of his head, the result of one of the shots fired at him as he fled from the store at Doyle. An examination has since revealed a 32 calibre ball imbedded in his skull, but it does not seem to be giving him any trouble. Before entering the store at Doyle the four men had appropriated four horses from nearby farms and said it was their intention, after looting the store, to ride the animals southward and get out of the country.

W. D. FLETCHER.

Our Soldier Boys.

In our last issue when we gave a letter from Walter Pruitt, we spoke of him as Walter Kendall. The only excuse the editor of this column can make is that in thinking of Walter Pruitt the name of Kendall also came to him, her son having been very fond of both of them. I know you will forgive me the mistake under the circumstances, and both the Walters will too. We hope we can soon have a letter from Lieutenant Kendall, telling us he is safe and sound. And then we will send another note from Walter Pruitt after he has been across and some of the letters from the boys now, since the censorship has been taken off. And ask as a special favor that as soon as you hear from any of the boys over there, telling that they were safe when the war was over you will send me the news and let me put it in this column. Then all the anxious friends can rejoice over the good news.

Private Henry Gordon Conway, Co. L, 15th Infantry, wrote to home folks on October 20th: "This is the first chance I have had to write to any one since I wrote you on September 1. When we are on the move mail cannot be sent, and we have been moving and fighting since September 1. I have just come out of the greatest event of my life. On the morning of September 26, after waiting in dugouts while our artillery worked about five hours, we went over the top and after the Germans. There was a very heavy fog and we could hardly keep in touch with the men in front of us. We advanced two or three miles without even seeing a Hun and when the fog lifted we were caught in a machine gun nest. A bunch of 'One Man Tanks' had gone over before us and we found them working on this nest. Tanks draw fire like a magnet draws steel, so there we were not only dodging machine gun bullets but artillery fire too. Those tanks are the best little pieces of machinery on earth and any boy in the outfit will tell you that if it had not been for them there would be nothing left to tell the tale. I still cannot see how it is that I am here untouched, because twice in the five days we were fighting I was knocked down by big shells and it seems to me that a thousand more tell just as close. In places machine gun bullets were like rain and I have yet to see the man who can go out in the rain and not catch a drop. After a lot of hard fighting and advancing we came to the first town and here some artillery was captured and one whole battalion surrendered. There were some mighty juicy dugouts in this town, and better yet a lot of good eats which the Germans did not have time to bother with. I have carried a pick ever since we were called out and on every like we have made have been tempted to get rid of it, but some way or another I managed to hold on to it and now, next to my rations, I think most of my pick. It is pretty small, but believe me when the 'whit bangs' are looking for you it certainly can go down in the ground. One day a German in an American plane signalled for our artillery to shorten the barrage and some of our men were killed, but the plane was later brought down by rifle fire and the next time that German gives a signal I hope it will be for a barrage of coal down below. We are now camped in pup tents and the hope is that we are going to rest billets soon. We are supposed to be resting now, but after all the drill we had in the States we are doing five hours of squads right and left every day. They have got us believing for sure that squads round about will win this war. We lost a good many men, not so many killed, but more gassed or slightly wounded. I know I saw more dead Germans than Americans, and this regiment alone took something like fifteen hundred prisoners. After five days we were relieved, and on the way back I ran into Bud Kelly. He said my brother, Robert, was in a town near by. I had hopes of seeing him, but we stopped in the woods and pitched tents instead of going to a town. Mail has been piling up for us all the time, and when we stopped here it was given out. I will have to stop this and answer some of the other thirty letters I have gotten."

"Sergeant Robert E. Wood, Co. E, 314 Engineers, wrote on September 16: "One of the chaplains gave us a good talk Sunday evening, and the way his name happened to be Wood I have never said anything about the future before, but we all know the fortunes of war is very fickle. We have not had any casualties yet, but some of the other companies have had a few and we do not know what time we may have several, and of course it is just as likely to be I as any. I am ready to make the supreme sacrifice if it is necessary for my loved ones, my country and my God, and I have not the least fear of the final outcome. And if the worst comes I do not want my friends to grieve for me, for you know there is a just God and that I shall have given all for a just cause. And it will not be for long. There is one glorious thought, the gas, fire and machine gun bullets of the Hun cannot kill the soul. Now there are not any of us figuring that they will get us and I have nine good chances to one that they won't and that I will return safely to you, but I just wanted to say these few words any way."

Word came to Pilot Knob last week from Washington that Private Henry Harrison, Co. K, 191 Infantry, had been killed in action on October 12th. It was only the 28th of last June that Henry left his friends here and went in the draft call to Camp Pike, Arkansas. After intensive training there he was taken to France, reaching there in September. And now on the 12th of October he made the supreme sacrifice of his life, that you and I and his little boy and all others might live in a world freed from the curse of militarism. That no longer could the barbarous Hun maltreat the Belgian and Serbian and Frenchman, nor Italian deeds be done to the Armenian by his partner, the Turk. Let us ever hold in high esteem these neighbors of ours who have gone across and died for us, and ever remember his eight year old boy who is thus made fatherless.

United War Work Campaign Organization Expresses Thanks.

The Iron County Executive Committee, through the local press, desires to thank all who aided in the United War-Work Campaign just closed. This applies to community helpers as well as to donors.

At this writing about one half of the school districts of the county have reported. We are expecting reports from the other districts before the close of the week, and if their liberality measures up to that of those already in, Iron County has gone "over the top."

Next week we hope to publish complete receipts from each district. We appreciate your co-operation with us in this movement, and again we thank you.

Very respectfully,
COUNTY EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

PATRONS, ATTENTION!

The influenza epidemic has made it necessary for the Ironton Schools to put in force some very stringent rules which are as follows:

(1) All children must be excluded from school while the disease of influenza exists in the homes from which they come.

(2) Convalescing students, who have been ill with influenza, must furnish a certificate from a practicing physician stating that they have fully recovered and will no longer spread the contagion.

(3) Children with colds (unless it is a light attack) must be excluded from school.

We urge upon the parents of the Ironton School District, to cooperate with us to prevent the spread of this malady, in order that the health and lives of our people may be safeguarded.

Yours, very truly,
RAYMOND SHOOK, Sup't.

Well, the war is over. Thank the Lord! This time was I have seen closed, and I thank God for spring me, these many long years. When Lee surrendered at Appomattox Courthouse, the 5th Virginia Cavalry was miles on Lee's left, guarding a bridge. Our Colonel and just been killed when we saw the Yankee Cavalry coming along carrying a white flag. We fought up to that moment. The Yankee boys yelled out to us, "Boys, it is all over!" Our Lieutenant Colonel said, "Boys, we will 'light a check' for home and surrender," which we did. We went in every direction. I passed through a lane where a farmer was laying off corn rows, saying, "Here, old man, you can have it. I am done." I will never forget those war time days; and now this war is all over and our boys, who were not killed or died, will be with us again, so Bless God from whom all blessings flow!

We are in receipt of a letter from our radio sailor boy, C. Fitz, saying he did not know when he would be discharged as they had to bring our soldier boys home, but would try and get a furlough soon.

We are also in receipt of a letter from Mrs. D. Bellis giving us the sad news of her husband's death. I know these young folks from their childhood days, and our sympathy goes out to his dear companion.

Mrs. Ben Krotty was buried here Friday. She died at Brunet. She was a daughter of John Semands of Des Arc.

We are also sorry to hear of the death of our old friend, James Lewis, well known in this county. He was buried at Des Arc Monday. He died at Pangburn, Ark., the home of his sons, who are operating a big mill there.

Horace Morris, son of O. C. Morris, paid us a short visit Sunday. He is working for the Frisco and his home is at Kensett, Ark.

Mrs. W. W. Strother attended the funeral of her niece, Mrs. Ben Keathley, who died last week. They now live at Richwoods, Washington County, a mining town 12 miles from De Soto.

Mrs. F. R. Rancey, one of our old citizens, is back at Des Arc and will spend the winter with John Kelly's family.

Annapolis News.

Some rain the past week and cold to day (Monday).

Well, the war is over but the boys from this county may not reach home for months to come, as there are so many older soldiers and wounded ones who will first be given the opportunity to return.

Many of those suffering from influenza are convalescent. Some new cases reported, but mostly mild.

George Miller, wife and baby of Crane Pond have been visiting Andee Robinson and other relatives, near Annapolis.

Mrs. Lila McKiff passed through Annapolis on her way to her father's, John Warneck, on Black river. She had a severe attack of influenza while here and sent for Dr. Jones of Brunet. When he found her husband was in France he would not have a penny for his services.

Benjamin F. Kitchell and wife of Haleyville, Oklahoma, visited Spire Kitchell and family here Sunday and Monday. From here they will go to Springfield, St. Francis county, to visit her relatives. From there they will go to St. Louis, and thence home. Ben has a good job railroaded out there which pays more than $200 a month.

Stovewood for Sale—Cut any length. L. A. PAUL, Phone 111.

Sale of Substitutes with Flour no Longer Required.

The regulation requiring that substitutes be sold with each purchase of flour has been set aside, and wheat flour may be sold without them in future.

Housewives are urged to practice strict economy in the use of all foods as in the past, because of the immense shipments which must be made to our men in Europe, and the need which exists among all the peoples of the war-torn countries.

Beginning December 1 the allowance of sugar will be increased to four pounds per person per month, and the allowance for one family may be purchased at one time. This does not mean that each person will be required to consume so much sugar, or that families should purchase their full allowance unless it is actually needed. The law against hoarding is still in effect, and besides, there is nothing to be gained by purchasing more than the allowance. The price will not change for the present. The dealer is still required to sell at a profit of only one cent per pound over cost price, with transportation added.
